Don Lam, CEO and Founding Partner of VinaCapital Group, said: “It’s been three years since we were last able to host an in-person investor conference, and as we all know, the world has changed greatly since then. But one thing that hasn’t changed is Vietnam’s attractiveness for investment. Few countries have emerged from the global pandemic as strong as Vietnam has, and we are excited for our guests to see and hear that the opportunities for investing here are as abundant as ever.”

Brook Taylor, CEO – Asset Management, commented: “VinaCapital funds have ranked as the top performers in their categories in Vietnam, an outstanding achievement given the stock market’s volatility and global economic headwinds. We’re delighted to once again be able to showcase the full range of investment vehicles VinaCapital offers investors, foreign or Vietnamese, institutional or retail, and enable them to participate in this dynamic country’s continued economic growth.”

Andy Ho, Chief Investment Officer, noted: “The stock market’s volatility has generated headlines and created a degree of uncertainty among some investors, but it is important to keep in mind that listed and private Vietnamese companies continue to perform well on the back of robust domestic demand. The companies we invest in, particularly those in the consumer discretionary sector, are generating solid earnings, some well-above pre-Covid levels, and with the continued strength of the economy, we are confident these companies are well-positioned to continue to grow and generate solid returns for our investors in the long term.”
